Harrier disposable cubicle curtains

Infection control

One of the most important aspects within the medical environment is infection Control. It is now a major factor in the assessment of hospital and doctor's performance - and rightly so, as any improvement in infection control can cause an immediate increase in the number of lives saved. And as risk of infection is reduced, the quality of life for patients is enhanced.

Harrier disposable curtains should become an integral part of every hospital and doctor's overall Infection Control strategy. A programme of regular replacement can be augmented by a policy of immediate change in any areas that have been exposed to high infection risk.

Recyclable and anti-bacterial

The curtains are manufactured from 100% recyclable polypropylene and are treated with Endurocide antibacterial formulation. Endurocide treated fabric has been independently tested against a range of bacteria including MRSA. It has proved to be extremely effective, both in anti-microbial activity and in creating a zone of inhibition around the fabric. The test results are available on request.

Enhanced quality of life for patients and staff

Conventional curtains that have been through many wash cycles soon begin to look worn and tired. Harrier Disposable Curtains will always look fresh and new - because they are! The curtains are permanently pleated as part of the manufacturing process, which ensures that they will always stack neatly, and close to the wall, giving the ward a bright and orderly appearance at all times.

DPL3 (with eyelets)

Harrier DPL3 is available with eyelets to fit existing cubicle track glider hooks and will fit almost all makes of glider or roller hooks. The DPL3 curtain is available in Sky Blue only.

DPL4 (with easy load gliders)

Harrier DPL4 easy load glider system in operation. Where tracks are provided with a curtain removal point (as shown here), curtains may be taken down or re-hung extremely quickly, with the integral gliders simply slotting into place. The DPL4 curtain is available in four attractive colours.
